MUSIC FOR ASYLUMS

Will Rival Surgeon's Knife—A Spanish Society—Difficult Navigation—Canfield Palace Sold.

New York, February 12.—One of the most interesting items left out of last week's letter is that of the meeting of The National Society of Musical Therapeutics; it is a great movement that relates to the world's progress, being of value to all the races of man. This important organization was founded five years ago by Miss Eva Augusta Vesceus, with headquarters in Greater New York. The aim of the society is the advancement of music in its relation to life and health, and to encourage the intelligent use of it in hospitals and other institutions for the sick. In her address Miss Vesceus said, "It is now more generally admitted that music can be so employed as to exercise a distinct psychological influence upon the mind, nerve centers and circulatory system, and that by the intelligent employment of music many ills to which flesh is said to be heir can be cured. We do not claim that music is a universal panacea, but that it should be recognized as an important factor in the healing art. The selection of music in hospitals and asylums needs thoughtful consideration, for there we meet with all kinds of discord. An emotional song that would give pleasure to one might sadden another; a patient suffering from nostalgia would not be benefited by a melody suggesting a home picture. Extremes of sentiment, pitch and force should be carefully avoided. Experience has led us to select for general practice music that is harmonious, rhythmic and simple in form, convincing and true."

In talking with her after the meeting I learned that trained nurses of a musical turn and musicians who are attracted to the study of this new use for music can avail themselves of the opportunity of practical instruction during the summer months by attending the sessions of the school Crotona, near Croton-on-the-Hudson, in this state. Doubtless we will hear more of the work of this society, which I believe is practical and will grow into more and larger usefulness. The surgeon's knife and a musical instrument or the human voice seem widely different tools for the cure of sickness, but we dare not scorn either if we observe the results accomplished. An operation has been performed in London and the claim is made that it heralds the triumph of the surgeon's knife over tuberculosis; they opened the back, cut away the ribs and removed the diseased tissues, and the woman lives and is expected to recover. Who knows but we will next hear that our Government has ordered the back of John D. to be opened and the dishonesty removed from his brain. If so, and it is successful the operating surgeon will have plenty of patients who will want to be inoculated with success-cultures from John D.'s brain matter.

Another interesting bit of news that had to be left over from last week was the opening of the Hispanic Society of America's New Museum in our city. Arthur M. Huntington, a son of Collis P. Huntington, endowed and founded the society; he gave the land, and spent eighteen years in collecting the library, art collection and historical objects which will be here shown. His purpose is to bring the people of the United States who are interested in Spanish into closer relations with Spanish and Portuguese people and those of the same blood in South America, through a better knowledge of their art, literature and history. Our possession of Porto Rico, and near relations with Cuba cannot but help to make Mr. Huntington's work of growing interest to the United States.

The extreme cold weather of the past week caused much inconvenience in our city; traffic from Manhattan to the Jersey shore and to Brooklyn has been paralyzed for not a boat on either river can follow its scheduled time; the ice-floes in both rivers, which drifted around in sections small enough for ferryboats to slowly force their way through on Friday, on Saturday became so solidly packed that only the largest boats could get through and many powerful boats were stalled midway. The Atlantic avenue boat from Brooklyn was held for six hours only eighty yards from its slip. Another ferry left the Battery for Brooklyn at 9:30 a. m., with one hundred passengers and did not reach the Brooklyn side; the passengers were taken ashore between 3 and 4 p. m. by a small tug, in small detachments. The bay was navigable, but only by great care and every boat that left Staten Island had to face the possibility of being frozen in. If this weather continues great suffering will ensue. New York state does not often have to endure a degree of cold that puts the mercury way down in the twenties, and Greater New York is generally warmer than the mountainous part of the state.

The famous "Canfield Palace" gambling house was sold last week. It was raided by District Attorney Jerome in 1902 and Canfield had a judgment against him of $42,000 until last year, when the Court of Special Sessions reduced it to $17,853.

ACCIDENT PROVED FATAL

Engineer McCahan Passed Away at Hospital Last Thursday Night.

George R. McCahan, the engineer who was seriously injured near Mt. Dallas last Thursday morning (as reported in last week's Gazette), died at the Allegheny Hospital, Cumberland, at 8 o'clock that evening. The contact with the steel car made a large hole in the side of his head and split the skull completely in half from top to bottom, it being held together only by the skin. No attempt was made at trephining, but the physicians cut out the crushed portions of the skull to relieve the patient from spasms.

He was a son of Stephen and Juliana McCahan and was born at Saxton on February 27, 1863, being 44 years, 11 months and nine days of age. On May 17, 1888, he married Miss Rebecca Kelly who, with four children, survives: Gertrude, Edith, Clay and Victor, at home; also one brother, Samuel, and two sisters, Misses Mary and Lizzie, of Saxton. The funeral was held in the Church of God at Saxton on Sunday, conducted by Rev. F. W. McGuire, and was largely attended.

F., in which he was a leader. He was esteemed by all who knew him and was universally loved in the sphere in which he moved; always faithful and kind to those in his home, and ever ready to perform a duty, help the needy, or contribute to a worthy cause. His father was a freight conductor on the H. & B. T. R. R. and on November 1, 1872, was killed in a wreck, aged 45 years, and, like his son, left a widow, two sons and two daughters. The family, doubly bereaved by the death of the eldest son and brother just one month ago, have the sympathy of the entire community.

The body was brought to this place and taken to the home of her son, where funeral services were held at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, conducted by Rev. M. L. Culler, assisted by Rev. H. B. Townsend. Himes and daughter, and Miss Ada Haffey, of Hopewell; Mrs. Cora Sweet of Saxton, and Jesse J. Anderson of Cleveland, O.

RAILROAD WRECKS

Loss of Life and Property; Many Passengers Injured.

In a wreck on the Western Maryland railroad near Gorman, W. Va., last Thursday morning, two were killed and about 30 injured. The wreck is thought to have been caused by a defective rail; the tender and three coaches went over the bank onto the ice in the Potomac, 40 feet below. Charles C. Cockrane of Westminster, Md., express messenger, and Moses Miller of Lost River, W. Va., a passenger, were killed.

George Price of Bedford, who has been employed in West Virginia for some time, was on board but was not seriously hurt; S. H. Buley of Cumberland, whose wife was Miss May Gilchrist, formerly of this place, was among the injured. The passenger, who was killed occupied the seat, between Mr. Price and Mr. Buley, which makes their escape seem miraculous.

One life, that of Engineer John McNeilis of Altoona, was sacrificed, six employees injured and valuable property destroyed in a head-on collision between a passenger and a freight on the Cambria and Clearfield Division near Cresson Monday morning.

His record on the School Board during the past three years is sufficient guarantee of the fitness of Rush C. Litzinger to be continued in office. W. E. Shoemaker, his running mate, is a good clean man and will make an efficient officer.

Dr. Culler, who is a surgeon in the U. S. Army, spent several years in the Philippines and is now stationed at Fort Monroe, where they will reside. Owing to the recent illness of the groom the wedding was a very quiet one. The Gazette wishes them a happy and prosperous future.

That Manager Cessna and Instructors Emerick and Rudy have made a success of the school is evident from results that are apparent. ## AROUND THE WORLD

Ruins of The Forum—Mythology of Ancient Rome—"The Bambino," a Jeweled Monstrosity.

What are the dimensions of the Coliseum? Our omniscient local escort answers that "it is about two minutes long, two minutes across and ten minutes around." What queer methods of computation of distance they have in Italy! It is five minutes to that point, fifteen minutes to another, or an hour to somewhere else, always measured by the hands of the clock. I did not buy any clothing in Rome but I suppose if I had decided to invest in a pair of trousers I should have had to give my waist measure in seconds and my legs at some fraction of a minute. Goodness knows, I wonder what I should have done in the emergency of buying a collar?

The guide did not mention the height of the Coliseum walls but I should judge they were something like a couple of minutes in altitude. Fortunately, there are all sorts of guide books that give just such information, and from these we learn the structure is a third of a mile in circumference, 620 feet in length, and 525 feet in width. It has four stories of arches supported by half-engaged columns. Vespasian began the work of its construction in A. D. 72 and it was completed by Domitian at a total cost of $3,000,000, not counting the free labor of 6,000 captive Jews.

The games were inaugurated by Titus in A. D. 80 by festivities that lasted 100 days, in which thousands of men and beasts lost their lives. The arena occupied an oblong space 275 by 177 feet. On certain occasions this arena was filled with water and in it mimic naval battles were fought, but it must have been a tame diversion to those who could relish an amusement of wholesale murder.

The sports of the Coliseum did not come into disrepute until more than seventy years after Constantine established the Christian as the Roman religion and forbade further Christian persecutions. In the year 404, during the progress of the usual show before a great multitude, it is recorded that a monk bought a ticket to the gladiatorial combats and when they began, rushed into the arena and endeavored to separate the combatants. Praetor Alypius, an enthusiastic gladiatorial fan, was so incensed at the interference that he gave orders to the gladiators to dispatch the monk. The order was promptly executed, but the heroic incident was sufficient to arouse the indignation of renaissance Rome, and the amphitheater was never again used for mortal contests or cruel games.

Nero's Palace

The ruins of the Coliseum stand on a portion of the site of Nero's palace, which was something of a show itself, for it was said to have been the most splendidly, extravagantly luxurious establishment that was ever devised by the folly of man. Nero imagined he was a god and had himself deified. (It would be interesting now to have a posthumous statement from this old villain as to his present status in the hierarchy of the skies.) His palace was a veritable city of splendid creations. Where the Coliseum stands an artificial lake reflected the verdure of trees and the spires and domes of pleasure resorts. Says Tacitus: "Within the enclosure of this palace were expansive lakes and fields of vast extent, intermixed with pleasing variety; woods and forests stretched to an in-

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the check of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness the fact in renewed bloom. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers, or for those broken-down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine nicely adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

terminable length, presenting gloom and solicitude amid scenes of open space, where the eye wandered with surprise over an unbounded prospect." The ceilings of the multitude of halls were covered with gold and glittered with diamonds and precious stones; the floors were inlaid with marble in exquisite designs; the dining-room was provided with turning panels of ebony and ivory from which perfumes were thrown in sprays, and flowers descended mysteriously upon the guests, who reclined upon couches and were fanned by slaves.

In this sumptuous palace brave Octavia met her fate, and Poppaea, who succeeded to her position, ruled, loved, idled, and finally died by a kick from Nero's brutal foot. This foolish woman had fads and fancies that would put our own Anna Held to shame. It is said of Anna that she took a daily bath in cow's milk at the beginning of her stage career to attract attention and gain notoriety, but vain Poppaea when she went abroad, took with her 500 she-asses that she might bathe twice a day in their milk. It might be observed incidentally here that her tubs must have been enormous or else the individual yield of milk must have been remarkably small.

Here, too, Britannicus was poisoned, and revelry, debauchery, and murder alternated in the luxurious life of the tyrant, poet, comedian, and beast. But Nero died and his splendid palace crumbled under the hand of his successor and was absolutely wiped off the face of the earth by envious Vespasian, not a single vestige remaining.

The Forum

In this vicinity, hard by the Coliseum, is the site of the ancient Forum, the heart of the city where most of its history was instigated and planned, if not performed. The Forum, too, is a wreck; twenty-five acres of marble and stone and conglomerate fragments of brick and mortar; three giant columns of smutted marble standing near the center are the best evidences now of the former imposing appearance of the courts.

I stood one day in the place where the vestal virgins kept the fires continually burning lest they go out. GALLEY TWO—FOREIGN LETTERS and Rome lose her prestige as the greatest power of the world. One of these virgins forsook her calling and joined the Christians and for this offense was burned alive. She had a special column in the temple which bore her name on its pedestal. This name was erased after her apostasy and the column still shows the erasure, but the first letter of the name Claudia may be seen in spite of the erasure. Her tomb in the catacombs bears this inscription in Latin: "Here lies Claudia, daughter of noble parents, waiting for the day of the resurrection to receive from Christ the gift of perpetual happiness."

I looked upon the tomb of Julius Caesar and the urn which held his ashes, and not far away the place where Antony delivered his funeral oration; and the rostra, too, where Cicero delivered his masterful pleas and against which his head and hands were hung after his murder.

In this narrow vale where Roman history was made through ten centuries of time, the dismembered fragments of the marble parliament are gathered in clusters, the ground is swept clean and a half dozen slender columns blackened with age are keeping vigil over the rest of the wreck, until such time—promised soon—when the Italian government shall undertake a complete restoration of the Forum as it was in the famous olden days. Two fine arches, like doorways for giants, stand in the midst of the salvage of ruins, one the work of Titus and showing in relief upon its inner wall the seven-branched candelstick of the temple of the Jews at Jerusalem; the other erected to Septimus Severus. Somehow or other we failed to connect with this latter gentleman in our hasty reviews of Roman history and had to be content with the terse story of the guide that he was the only "negro Emperor Rome ever had and that he died and is buried in England."

But there is a whole book in a description of the Forum, and I will simply have to run away from the many features that are pleading for a place in this story, any old story to escape the sentence of oblivion to which they have been doomed.

Capitoline Hill

Come with me now, hastily, to the summit of the Capitoline Hill, whence the Forum and, indeed, all present Rome may be viewed to fine advantage. Let us ascend the long flight of steps, the same upon which Rienzi, the last of the Roman tribunes, met his tragic death. Two great statues of Castor and Pollux greet us upon landing, and a little beyond, Marcus Aurelius is astride a horse—the only bronze equestrian statue of twenty in the streets of the first city that were spared by the Goths and Vandals. Father Tiber, a big sensual fellow with rolls of fat on his middle, reclines in marble yonder beside a marble fountain.

The city of Rome has its offices here and as we pass these we notice a bulletin exposed outside the door which we are told is the publication of bans of marriage required by Italian law as precedent to a legal union. The Trepian Rock is a perpendicular side of the hill which we visit and overlook. And after we have compassed the city below and noted the winding Tiber and all the sites the splendid view affords we are asked to enter a strange old church which occupies a portion of the hill—the church of Ara Coeli, whatever that may mean. There is just one thing in this old basilica worth the time of the tourist. It is the "Bambino." Let's see it.

The Bambino

This curiosity is an effigy of the infant Jesus which was carved from the wood of an olive tree in the garden of Gethsemane in the fifteenth century by a Franciscan monk, and, because of the subject represented and material used, is an object of great veneration by the poor, ignorant, superstitious, super-pious people of Rome. It is almost beyond comprehension that hundreds of thousands of people should pay tribute to this little wooden thing as though it were divine and possessed miraculous powers, but for more than three hundred years the Bambino has been honored and all but worshipped, and the little fellow, as unconscious of the adoration as the sweating stones of the room where he is located, has been literally covered from head to foot with votive offerings of those who have sought his favors or been the beneficiaries of his supposed supernatural virtue.

We are admitted upon the payment of ten centimes, or two cents, each. A friar, with much reverence and caution, opens the door of a room so small that it is little more than a closet, and when a number of candles are lit a wooden babe, as above described, is revealed in the glow of the light and for a moment we can hardly look upon his features, so resplendent is the mass of jewels in which he is clothed. On his head a mass of flashing diamonds, rubies, and precious stones of every hue and of priceless value; on his little body thousands of rare and radiant offerings from the faithful; there are rings of all kinds, watches, brooches, necklaces, bracelets, pins, and everything carried in a jewelry store and worn by men and women. On many of the pieces are the initials and often the names of the donors. The feet of the babe are of solid gold, and altogether the value of the trappings with which his little frame is covered must run up into hundreds of thousands.

CATARRH YIELDS

To Healing Air of Hyomei—Sold Under Guarantee by F. W. Jordan.

Catarrh is the most prevalent disease known to humanity. Probably ninety per cent. of the people in this country suffer at one time or another with this common disease.

It is a germ disease and hence can be cured only by some method that will reach and destroy the germs.

This is best found in Hyomei, which may be called the direct method of treating catarrh, as its medication, taken in with the air you breathe, goes directly to every air cell in the nose, throat and lungs; kills all catarrhal germs; heals the irritated mucous membrane and vitalizes the tissues so as to render catarrh no longer possible.

F. W. Jordan gives his absolute guarantee to refund the price to any catarrh sufferer that Hyomei fails to benefit. Feb. 14-2t.

A Jeweled Monstrosity

We Americans, of course, look upon the little, chubby, jeweled monstrosity with eyes of curiosity, but while we are indulging in smiles and GALLEY THREE—FOREIGN LETTERS reflections upon the ease with which people are led astray, whether it be by a golden calf made by Aaron or by a glittering wooden idol countenanced by the Pope, behind us a couple of women, travelers such as we, have dropped to their knees in what, to them, is a sacred presence.

Charles Dickens, in his "Pictures of Italy," speaking of this inanimate child to which virtue is attributed, says: "I met this Bambino in the streets one day going in great state to a house of some sick person. It is taken to all parts of Rome for this purpose constantly; but I understand that it is not always as successful as could be wished, for making its appearance at the bedside of weak and nervous people in extremity, accompanied by a numerous escort, it not unfrequently frightens them to death. I am happy to know that it is not considered immaculate by some who are good Catholics and who are behind the scenes, from was told me by a good Catholic gentleman of learning and intelligence."

I know that the Catholic priests of our steamboat party did not approve of the idolatrous practice connected with the Bambino, for they professed such chagrin at the notoriety that the object has received, that they would not, under any conditions, look upon it.

I have before me as I write a picture of this Bambino (the word means "babe" in Italian), which I secured in Rome, and on the reverse side is a printed notation that the celebrated "statue of the Divine Infant" was solemnly crowned by the Vatican Chapter on the 2d of May, 1897—100 days indulgence once a day applicable to the souls in Purgatory.—Leo XIII, 18th January, 1894." S. J. Thomas.

The Jumping Off Place

"Consumption had me in its grasp; and I had almost reached the jumping off place when I was advised to try Dr. King's New Discovery; and I want to say right now, it saved my life. Improvement began with the first bottle, and after taking one dozen bottles I was a well and happy man again," says George Moore of Grimesland, N. C. As a remedy for coughs and colds and healer of weak, sore lungs and for preventing pneumonia New Discovery is supreme. 50c and $1.00 at all druggists. Trial bottle free.

New Treatment of Consumption

Reports have appeared in the daily press, says Nature, of a new treatment for consumption in which the diseased portion of the lung is removed by operation. The only novelty seems to be the use of hot water or steam to control the hemorrhage, for excision of a portion of the lung has occasionally been performed during the last seventy years. Such a procedure could only be of service in a very few selected cases.

SIMPLE REMEDY FOR LA GRIPE

La grippe coughs are dangerous as they frequently develop into pneumonia. Foley's Honey and Tar not only stops the cough but heals and strengthens the lungs so that no serious results need be feared. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no harmful drugs and is in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes. Ed. D. Heckerman.

THE AMERICAN INDIAN

His Condition Now and in Times Past in the United States.

No so very long ago the Indian Territory was a good place to go to hunt buffalo and get scalped by the Indians, but the dim and winding Indian trail has broadened into a highway of civilization and the Indian finds himself absolutely stranded on the shores of civilization, where he must live under new conditions and be governed by new surroundings. Of the Indian Territory comparatively little is known by the outsider. That such a territory existed, that it is the abiding place of the remnant of five once powerful tribes of North American Indians—the Choctaws, Chickasaws, Creeks, Cherokees and Seminoles, and several lesser tribes—is a matter of common knowledge—but with present day conditions in the territory, few are familiar.

Ten years ago the territory was not the civilized country it is today. The white man who went there to live looked for a life of rough work and danger, but the very fact that the "nester" from the north faced the uncertainty of those days to enjoy the certainty of the wheat harvest, is its greatest testimonial. Perhaps the most remarkable characteristic of the Indian Territory is that it is one of the few corners in this country or in the world where the wheat and cotton belts merge or intersect and the two staples thrive side by side. The annual income from live stock is $12,000,000, cotton $7,000,000, with six million bushels of oats and four million bushels of wheat. What the future will develop in the way of oil fields is a secret religiously kept from the public.

Socially it is a surprise. The mind of the average American harks back at the mere mention of the Indian land to the days where blankets and moccasins were much in evidence and the implements of war much in demand. The land has been appraised and allotted to the Indians. There are three classes of eligible allottees—the citizen of Indian blood, whether full blooded or not, the intermarried white citizen, and the freedman. A freedman is an ex-slave or the descendant of an ex-slave formerly owned by an Indian. Every citizen or freedman of these five nations, regardless of age or sex, is entitled to an allotment; for instance, a citizen with a wife and three children, may choose five allotments. Each citizen's allotment is equivalent to 320 acres of average arable land. Not all Indians are paupers. There is now in the treasury at Washington to the credit of the Indian tribes over $33,000,000, drawing interest at the rate of four and five per cent.

The total expenditure of the government on account of the Indian service, from 1789 to 1900, amounts to over $368,000,000. More money has been paid to extinguish Indian titles than to extinguish the titles of foreign nations, and the cost of Indian wars has been equal to the cost of foreign wars. The Indians composing the five civilized tribes of the Indian nation are the richest people as a whole on the face of the earth. They are worth $5,000 per capita. Before the war they owned slaves and the work of cultivating their farms fell to the negro, but after the war a treaty was entered into under which the Indians agreed to adopt the slaves, and the negroes became members of the tribe with which they had been affiliated. In the Creek nation the Indians and the negroes have freely intermarried, so that of the 84,000 Indian citizens in the territory, about 20,000 are freed-

IT SAVED MY LIFE—WRITES ECZEMA PATIENT

Bed-Ridden Sufferer Completely Cured by Use of D. D. D. External Wash.

One of the most remarkable Eczema cures recently credited to the well-known D. D. D. Prescription has just been recorded in Chicago.

Mrs. E. Hegg, 1550 West Madison street, under date of December 9, 1907, writes as follows:

"I suffered three years with Weeping Eczema. It started with a little spot on my knees and spread fast over my whole body. I spent hundreds of dollars and went to every good doctor I heard of, but kept getting worse. Nothing would stop the awful itch and burning."

"I had to stay in bed from the middle of May to the middle of July. Then I tried D. D. D. Prescription. This is the 9th of December and I am entirely free from the terrible disease. D. D. D. saved my life."

"When I began this treatment, people were afraid of me, I looked so terrible. My husband was the only one who would take care of me. D. D. D. stopped the itch at once so I could sleep, which I had not done before. Then I began to get better fast and now my skin is clear and white, not a spot anywhere."

Just a few drops of D. D. D. Prescription applied to the skin brings relief—nothing to swallow or drink. We vouch for D. D. D. Prescription, also the cleansing D. D. D. Soap. F. W. Jordan, Bedford, Pa. Get a bottle today if you have any skin disease. Begin your cure at once.

Coughs of Children

Especially night coughs. Nature needs a little help to quiet the irritation, control the inflammation, check the progress of the disease. Our advice is—give the children Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Ask your doctor if this is his advice also. He knows best. Do as he says.

We publish our formulae. We banish alcohol from our medicines. We urge you to consult your doctor.

Ayer's

If you think constipation is of trifling consequence, just ask your doctor. He will disabuse you of that notion in short order. "Correct it, at once!" he will say. Then ask him about Ayer's Pills. A mild liver pill, all vegetable.

Made by the J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

men, or the children of freedmen. There is not one blanket Indian in the territory and not one Indian who lives in a tepee, but there are hundreds of little cities and villages scattered through the territory with substantial schools and churches built of brick and stone. If a white man selects a Chickasaw maiden for his wife, and wishes to become a citizen of that nation, he may do so upon the payment of $1,000. This is probably the highest marriage license fee charged in the world.

The Indian population of the United States is about 267,900. The question of whether the Indian tribes are dying out is very misleading. The generally accepted theory, popularly held, is that by contact with the white man, taking on a part of his civilization and a greater portion of his vices, the extinction of the Indian is only a matter of time. The fact is the Indian population of the United States has been diminished very little from the day of Columbus. Twenty-five years ago citizens' clothing was the exception, now it is the rule. The coat has taken the place of the blanket, the old relation of brave and squaw is passing away before the influence of homestead life. The young Indians are everywhere drifting into a new industrial life and they will continue this progress as civilization presses in around them in an ever-narrowing circle.

The Indian has demonstrated that he has a high order of intelligence; he has shown that he can become a good citizen. He has exhibited an aptitude for many lines of business, and within the next twenty-five years he is likely to take a place in the commercial world. The spirit of progress and Christian civilization is taking a firm hold of the young educated Indians of all the tribes. The old Indian must die out. The buffalo, the chase, the war path, and the ghost dance must be forgotten as actual occurrences before many of the backward tribes will voluntarily take advantage of the schools.

The railroads are doing much for the rapid development of Oklahoma. New lines are pushing out in all directions, and as the steel tracks blaze the way, towns spring up on every side, and homes are dotting the prairie. The plow and hoe are converting waste lands into productive farms and ranches, where the soil and climate need only a little of man's ingenuity and labor to make a garden spot. A. Decker.

At times when you don't feel just right, when you have a bad stomach, take something right away that will assist digestion; not something that will stimulate for a time but something that will positively do the very work that the stomach performs under ordinary and normal conditions, something that will make the food digest. To do this you must take a natural digestant like Kodol For Dyspepsia. Kodol is a scientific preparation of vegetable acids with natural digestants and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. Each dose will digest more than 3,000 grains of good food. It is sure to afford prompt relief; it digests what you eat and is pleasant to take. Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

Alaska's Garnet Miners

Capitalists interested in the garnet mining company in Alaska are all women. No man has any part in the organization of the company or the management. It is their intention to start work soon on a large scale. The mine is situated at what is known as the Hornblende garnet ledge, at the mouth of the Stikine River, seven miles from Wrangell. The garnets will be shipped in their native form to Minneapolis, and there manufactured into jewelry of all kinds. The Alaska garnets are, it is claimed, harder and larger than any others at present on the market.—Argonaut.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Communication From Our Regular Correspondent

STILLINGS SUSPENDED

Senator Foraker's Resolution in Regard to Federal Patronage—Law Should be Passed Governing Expenditures of Public Printer.

Washington, D. C., February 8.—An amusing bit of byplay is being enacted in the Senate cloakrooms and committee rooms. It consists of a resolution, drafted by Senator Stone of Missouri, calling on the President for information concerning the reports that the Federal patronage has been used to promote the political welfare of one of the Republican candidates for the Presidential nomination. Senator Stone declines to introduce his resolution until he has assurances that it would be passed by the Republicans. While a few of the Senators have taken seriously the charges of Senator Foraker that patronage has been improperly used in Ohio, etc., and would like to see "what the President has to say for himself," there are, fortunately for them, other members of the Republican party who have learned from experience that it is dangerous to "tamper with the man in the White House," and they are assuring their overzealous brethren that it is by no means a safe experiment. As a matter of fact, the President would enjoy nothing better than the opportunity to lay before the Senate, and particularly the public, certain facts regarding the federal patronage which would make "mighty interest in reading." There is growing suspicion on the Republican side of the chamber that Senator Stone appreciates how disastrous would be the havoc among his misguided colleagues were they to adopt his innocent-looking little resolution and the plan may, therefore, be abandoned. It is considered likely that the Senate will receive this information anyway as the Presidential magazine is full to the explosive point.

Charges Against Secretary
Senator Culberson of Texas, leader of the minority in the Senate, made another onslaught this week upon Secretary Cortelyou of the Treasury. Among other things he charged the Secretary and the Finance Committee with failing to keep faith with him in regard to certain resolutions he had proposed calling for information. He also asserted that the Secretary violated the law in five specific particulars in his issuance of Panama bonds and 3 per cent. Treasury certificates and in distributing public funds in national bank depositories. Senator Hopkins of Illinois, made a brief reply declaring that every accusation made by Mr. Culberson had been answered in the report of Secretary Cortelyou.

Printing Office Investigation
The suspension of Public Printer Stillings is the gossip of the hour in political circles in Washington this week and the Audit System has been suspended. The joint subcommittee on printing will continue its investigation of conditions in the Government Printing Office and the methods through which contracts were secured for furnishing supplies to the printing office. It is believed that one of the most salutary effects of the present investigation will be the attempt, which it is expected will be pushed vigorously, to make it impossible hereafter for a Public Printer to have at his disposal the whole appropriation of many millions of dollars each year, with practically no safeguards. Stillings last year received an appropriation of about $5,000,000, which, added to what he had left over from the previous year unexpended, amounted to considerably more than that sum. Over all this money, with the exception of the amounts which shall be paid for paper—over which Congress has control—the Public Printer is the only and final arbiter. While there is no allegation that Stillings or any other Public Printer spent this money in an illegitimate way, Congressmen are of the opinion that so much money should not be placed in the care of one man, with unlimited right to spend it whenever and wherever he may see fit, without some restrictions. Members of the joint subcommittee believe that if Congress will enact a law governing to some extent the expenditures of the Public Printer, such a law would not only be just to that officer but would, also, be just to Congress and to the public who are paying the bills.

Indictment Against Republicans

The last political speech to be made in the House last week, with the Indian appropriation bill as the vehicle, was a characteristic delivery by Representative Clayton of Alabama. As has been the case with every Democrat who has spoken, Mr. Clayton took the recent message of the President as his text and in the course of his remarks he divided the Republicans into two factions—"the reactionaries and the White House cuckoos." He charged that the message was an indictment against the Republican party for its dereliction and incompetency and asserted that not only had the President found the indicted but had furnished the proof upon which to convict. "Inasmuch as the President's message adopted in every particular the principle advocated by the Democratic party," said Mr. Clayton, "it was little wonder that its reading provoked some Democratic applause."

Florida Republicans Divided

While the Republicans are prating over harmony in their party and availing themselves of every opportunity to emphasize each little discord in the Democracy, the Republicans of Florida have just held their state convention, which separated into two parts and elected two sets of delegates, one instructed for Taft and the other uninstructed. This recalls the old adage that "you can always get up a contesting delegation among Southern Republicans (who are all negroes) with a box of cigars and a few bright silver dollars."

IN THE FUTURE

Says Home-Made Mixture is Easily Prepared, and Cures Weak Kidneys and Bladder.

Here is a simple home-made mixture as given by an eminent authority on Kidney diseases, who makes the statement in a New York daily newspaper, that it will relieve almost any case of Kidney trouble if taken before the stage of Bright's disease. He states that such symptoms as lame back, pain in the side, frequent desire to urinate, especially at night; painful and discolored urination, are readily overcome. Here is the recipe; try it:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

A well-known druggist here in town is authority that these ingredients are all harmless and easily mixed at home by shaking well in a bottle. This mixture has a peculiar healing and soothing effect upon the entire Kidney and Urinary structure, and often overcomes the worst forms of Rheumatism in just a little while. This mixture is said to remove all blood disorders and cure the Rheumatism by forcing the Kidneys to filter and strain from the blood and system all uric acid and foul, decomposed waste matter, which cause these afflictions. Try it if you aren't well. Save the prescription.

Add two eggs, one cup of bread crumbs that have been softened in cold water, one small onion chopped fine, one-half cup of sweet milk, three teaspoonfuls of salt and one-fourth teaspoon of pepper. ## "SELF"

ELLEN WINTER

The longer I live, the more I become convinced of one truth: that we are our own architects; that in a great measure we mould ourselves intellectually, morally and physically. By eating in moderation at proper hours, good, nourishing food; by keeping the skin in good, healthy condition, and taking plenty of vigorous exercise in the open air, in nine cases out of ten we develop a fine physique. Upon the contrary, by improper food at irregular hours, giving up all out-door exercise for sedentary employment of any kind, in badly ventilated rooms, and especially by dissipation and late hours, we sap life of all its vital qualities, and make of ourselves irritable, sallow-faced dyspeptics, who can see nothing beautiful in life nor in any of its surroundings. So, too, with our mental and moral developments, which are so closely allied. We may cultivate a taste for history, for mathematics, for the sciences, for the fine arts, and store our minds with useful and pleasing knowledge, or we may ignore these studies entirely for the trashy literature of the day that excites and inflames the imagination without leaving behind a single useful or ennobling thought. We may fill heart and brain with the simple nothings of fashionable life, or the petty annoyances to which we are more or less subjected, or we may so fill them with pure and elevating thoughts that we shall build for ourselves characters, beautiful as those with which the angels are endowed. If these things be true—and I hold that they are facts that bear no contradiction—how strange it seems that some who really desire in their hearts to rear for themselves character of beauty, will spend hours of precious time and an untold amount of vitality in recapitulating to one another the trifling annoyances of everyday life; in listening to the foolish gossip that flies so idly from lip to lip, or the poisonous slander that serpent-like creeps noiselessly onward, until it finds and enters some sensitive, aching heart, and rankles there forever, severing often the friendship of years, blighting the fondest hopes and dooming, perhaps, innocent lives to an existence to which death itself would be far preferable. We all aspire to say, in one way or another, beautiful things to those about us. To do this the beautiful thoughts must find a constant resting place within the heart. In other words, we must teach ourselves to think beautifully at all times, and then will the precious truths, clad in the garb of pure and ennobling words, drop from our lips like well-cut diamonds from the hands of the successful lapidary. If the heart is full of holy and tender thoughts, there will be no room for impure and envious ones to enter. Let us see to it that the demons of discontent and selfishness obtain no entrance. Life is too short, its hours too brief and fleeting to squander one moment. And, as we draw near and yet nearer to the end of our journey, as we pass the milestones one by one so rapidly we scarce may count them, and think of the beautiful structure, yet so sadly imperfect, that we had hoped to leave behind us, we look back longingly and regretfully to the hours wherein we might have added many a well chiseled block of granite to the now unfinished pile.

Let us then be helps to one another. Let us garner up from time to time all pure and lovely things, to whisper to each other when we meet upon life's journey. Let us endeavor, also, to fulfill Christ's injunction: "Bear ye one another's burdens." By this I understand He meant the real burdens that we may not lay aside, not the imaginary ones that should not be carried at all. Some burdens must be borne, but this we should remember, that the more cheerfully we carry them the lighter they become. The journey of life is a toilsome ascent at best, and if we load ourselves with unnecessary burdens we shall surely faint by the way. For myself, after years of patient toiling, I have reached this plateau upon the mountain. I will not repeat myself, nor encourage others in repeating to me, that which may injure another, nor will I tell to others, or encourage them to tell to me the trifling annoyances over which I have no control.

The ills I can remedy I will attend to quietly and quickly; those beyond my reach I will endeavor to bear patiently, and at last will not aggravate them by carrying them to others. Why should I burden my friends by recounting to them the imperfections of my servants, or fancied shortcomings of my neighbors? Why should I speak of the unfaithfulness of a friend, or the backbiting of an enemy? Do I in any degree remedy the matter by so doing? Nay, rather I bring to both myself and the friend with whom I converse, hours of disquietude and care, and fill both hearts with restless, pernicious thoughts, when they might have been stored with holy ones meet for eternity. God's hours are golden, why should we beggar ourselves for all eternity by a reckless misuse of them here?

"Lives of great men all remind us, We can make our lives sublime And departing leave behind us, Footprints on the sands of time."

Footprints that perhaps another Sailing o'er life's solemn main A forlorn and shipwrecked brother, Seeing shall take heart again.

Let us then be up and doing With a heart for any fate, Still achieving, still pursuing, Learn to labor and to wait."

Bert Barber of Elton, Wis., says: "I have only taken four doses of your Kidney and Bladder Pills and they have done for me more than any other medicine has ever done. I am still taking the pills as I want a perfect cure." Mr. Barber refers to DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. They are sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

Worth Knowing

When heating eggs add a pinch of salt to hasten the process.

Custards and cereals should always be cooked in a double boiler.

A little flour sprinkled over the top of a cake will prevent the icing from running.

Adding a spoonful of molasses to buckwheat batter will make the cakes fry a delicate brown.

To remove old putty from window frames pass a red-hot poker slowly over it and it will come off easily.

A little rich, sweet cream spread over the top crust of a pie just before it is put into the oven will make it brown and flaky.

Use hot water and no soap for all fruit stains. Use cold water and soap for tea, coffee and cocoa stains.

Milk remains fresh longer in a shallow basin than it would if kept in a deep jug.

Baking tins should be washed as clean as possible with a strong solution of soda, and then scoured with a piece of pumice stone. This will keep them in excellent condition.

To clean knives easily take a flat cork, dip it in slightly moistened knife powder and with it rub up and down the blade till all stains are removed. Then wipe with a duster.

NO CASE ON RECORD

There is no case on record of a cough or cold resulting in pneumonia or consumption after Foley's Honey and Tar has been taken. It stops the cough and breaks up the cold quickly. Refuse any but the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar in a yellow package. Ed. D. Heckerman.

The Mouth

A large, shapely mouth, signifies breadth of mind and toleration of others' peculiarities.

Thin lips denote covetousness, greed, selfishness and unless strongly contradicted by some other feature, intense love of power.

The more curved and flexible the lips the more yielding the nature. The more straight and firm the lips the more severe the nature. Lips that look as if they had been pressed into a straight line show self-repression, nervousness and obstinacy.

A mouth to be perfect should be large and shapely, the corners straight or very slightly inclined to droop; lips neither thick nor thin and firmly but easily closed.

Everything taken into the stomach should be digested fully within a certain time. When you feel that your stomach is not in good order, that the food you have eaten is not being digested, take a good, natural digestant that will do the work the digestive juices are not doing. The best remedy known today for all stomach troubles is Kodol, which is guaranteed to give prompt relief. It is a natural digestant; it digests what you eat, it is pleasant to take and is sold here by Ed. D. Heckerman.

Rheumatism Cannot Be Cured Unless Uric-O Is Used

Sudden Death, Heart Failure and Paralysis Are Caused by Poisonous Uric and Rheumatic Acids.

The Rheumatic person is skeptical regarding the claims of almost any remedy advertised as a cure for Rheumatism and one can scarcely blame him for being so. All the plasters and liniments combined never actually cured a case of Rheumatism. "They may relieve it in one quarter, but it is sure to break out somewhere else. The only true way to cure Rheumatism is to drive it from the system, for as long as the Uric and Rheumatic Acid remains in the blood, one is never entirely free from the trouble. This is where the value of Uric-O as a permanent cure for Rheumatism comes in. It seeks out the Rheumatic poison in the blood, muscles and kidneys, renders it inert and harmless and drives it out of the system. That is why Uric-O is such an admirable and effective cure for Rheumatism.

The chief reason that Uric-O is such a wonderful cure for Rheumatism is, that it is designed and prepared to cure Rheumatism and Rheumatism only. It is composed of perfect antidotes for the rheumatic acid poison in the system. That is the secret of its wonderful success. Rheumatism simply cannot exist in a person's system if Uric-O is used.

Uric-O is sold by druggists at 75c and $1.00 the bottle, but if you still feel skeptical about its efficacy you can test it free of charge by cutting out this advertisement and sending same, together with your name and address, also the name of your druggist, to The Smith Drug Company, 431 Smith Bldg., Syracuse, N. Y., and they will send you a sample bottle free. To persons who write and say they have never used Uric-O, and want to test it thoroughly, and will agree to take it systematically according to directions, they frequently give a regular 75c bottle free.

Uric-O is sold and personally recommended in Bedford by F. W. Jordan. Feb 14-2t.

Galveston's Achievement

In the place of a robbed, misgoverned, and devastated city, the commission government of Galveston has for six years so directed and managed municipal affairs and property as to have virtually paid off the city's indebtedness, brought its credit to a premium, paved, lighted, and sewer-ed its streets, brought all its departments up to a good business efficiency, given it a clean, honest, equitable, and human government, and made it one of the cleanest, most healthful, prosperous, and law-abiding cities in America. Besides that—as Galveston City constitutes nine-tenths of Galveston county in population and in value of taxable property—the city has virtually built around itself the now famous sea-wall and is, by itself, raising two-thirds of its area from eighteen inches to ten feet so as to put it above any future storm waters. And it has done all this on a constantly decreasing tax rate!

Who are the men that have done this? Just plain, everyday American citizens: a banker, a cattle dealer, a real estate agent, and a wholesale grocer as commissioners. The first mayor-president—who died in office—was a lawyer, the present one is a retired cotton merchant. Of varying national descents, of ages from a comparatively young man to a man of mature years, of means from wealthy to moderate—just a good average of the everyday, respectable, and self-respecting human-being—that's all.—H. S. Cooper in Success Magazine.

The killing order should be extended to the trust octopus which is despoiling vegetation not only in Nevada but throughout the nation.

TUESDAY'S ELECTION

At next Tuesday's election the borough and township officers of the county will be selected. This election is of more importance than it is usually considered. It is of more importance to a town or township to have a good, live School Board than a good Congressman, and it is likewise more important to have a board of up-to-date Supervisors than a good State Senator, though, of course, good officials in state and nation are essential.

Let no Democrat fail to exercise his power at this spring election, for the officers elected concern him and his family most intimately. Turn out.

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

In this commercialistic age the American people pay too little attention to the birthdays of men who have figured mightily in the nation's past history. The recounting in the schools of the country of the noble deeds and the self-sacrifices of men whose influence and work were for good, is a fitting exercise for the day upon which they were born, and such exercises in the schools must necessarily make better the boys and girls for they supply noble impulses.

The introduction in Congress of a resolution to make Lincoln's birthday a national holiday is a step in the right direction. Well may we perpetuate the memory of one who rose from obscurity and from the common people to the highest post of honor and usefulness and who concluded his labors in the service of his country by giving up his life-blood! The veil that separates time from eternity has long shut him off from mortal gaze but the memory of him should ever be fresh in the American mind; he is a noble example for the rising generation.

DIFFERENT VIEWPOINTS

The preamble and resolutions adopted recently, at a meeting of the American Paper and Pulp Association in New York, set forth that the repeal of the duties on pulp and printing papers would result in the destruction of American forests. It would be most commendable on the part of this trust to advocate a continuation of the predatory tariff—if the trust were sincere; but knowing trust methods and schemes, to the intelligent reader the statement is ridiculous and amusing, and such a "spider and fly" game is hardly likely to count for much.

How striking the contrast between this view of the trust and that expressed by the American Association of Newspaper Publishers which association has emphatically declared that what is left of our American forests can be preserved or at least saved from the present ravage only by the importation of wood pulp and printing paper. In the opinion of the association Canada and Norway are capable of furnishing the necessary pulp and paper to last the consumers for years.

A certain amount of paper will be consumed even at the advanced price, and throwing open the tariff gates is the only way to secure it from other countries and thus save the American forests from the hands of the despoiler—the trust which would retain the tariff and prohibit importation.

Some of our Republican contemporaries are getting their eyes open (perhaps because they themselves are being plucked) and it is to be hoped that ere long they will cease entirely to worship the tariff fetish and assist in bringing about a general revision and reduction of duties which will benefit the great mass of American people.

The paper trust was the main cause of three papers in this county closing shop and two others raising their subscription price, and, strange as it may seem, four of the five were outspoken advocates of the trust-fostering tariff which makes it necessary for our farmers to sell their products to a free market with a couple exceptions and buy their machinery and their clothing from a market protected by a robber tariff. There will be an awakening. Time was when our "infant industries," like little children, needed to be petted and humored, but no sane man will tell an intelligent public today that our industries have not discarded their "swaddling clothes," for they have grown to such gigantic proportions that they are capitalized at millions, and they have become so powerful as to turn the tide in elections and dictate their terms. But such conditions will not always exist.

HECKERMAN LETTER

"Happy Bill" Detained in Tennessee City by Smallpox Scare.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 10, 1908. The weather, since I wrote you, with one day's exception has been grand. No snow and but little frost in the early morning. The sun comes up, the white frost vanishes and for a few hours the walks and streets are a little muddy. While in Huntsville, Ala., a few days ago it rained hard and I got slightly damp. I was in the town only an hour and forty minutes and in that time saw three men, sold to two of them, ate my dinner and walked a mile from the town to the N. C. & St. L. R. R. depot, where I got a train for Murfreesboro, Tenn. The rain passed by and the next day was an ideal one.

Much of the country about Murfreesboro, Mt. Pleasant and Columbia is underlaid with a phosphate rock. This is dug up, hauled to stations and then shipped to mills where it is ground. Mixed with so-called bone dust, acids, and dear knows what all, it is put in bags and sold as fertilizers for different kinds of crops. This phosphate ore looks like red slate and is as heavy as stone but I have never seen any large lumps of it. They seem to value it very highly and the land where it is found jumps into value very rapidly, almost as much so as the country where they find oil. Millions of tons of this fertilizer ore are sold annually and the crops that are raised on land where they do not use it are small, the cotton stalks are short and the cornstalks no thicker than a lead pencil, so there must be some virtue in the stuff.

I don't know just when or how I am to get out of this city. Not that I do not have money to pay my bill but because of the rule lately put into use here forbidding the railroad to sell you a ticket to leave the city unless you can show a doctor's certificate that you have been recently vaccinated. This is the second time in my travels that I have been caught thus, the other time was some years ago at Charleston, S. C. At that time I was vaccinated and when my arm got sore I wrote to Boston that I had a rose of Sharon and the music of a Corbett on my left arm and that they had paid two dollars for it. Mr. Reardon did not understand and wrote back asking what I meant. I am going to dodge it this time if possible. The city is full of smallpox; the colored pest houses are full and overflowing with persons suffering from the dread disease. The white pest houses are also full and many new cases are reported each day; there has only been one death, however, up to this time. The city fathers appointed at first twenty-five doctors to go from house to house and vaccinate every one. This did not go fast enough, the number of doctors was doubled and last Saturday's report showed that on that day three thousand had been vaccinated and it was reported that there were no more points to be had. Just what has been done since I don't know. Some that would not submit to vaccination were arrested and put to prison; this generally brought the result and they bared their arms to be "jabbed."

There are pickets out and when a squad of doctors are seen coming the clerks and help in the offices and stores are notified and such running and hiding is most laughable. I was caught and cornered in the large wholesale grocery of Coleman Tompkins & Company, and while the doctors (two of them) were in the office, I rode the elevator to the cellar and got out. Don't know how I'll fare to get out of town. Nashville is not the only city with the dread disease; all the towns that I have been in lately have had more or less of it. At Livingston, Tenn., a family of six had it, the father died and no one could be found to bury him. It is a pitiable state of affairs, which will do incalculable damage to the trade here. Nashville is a large distributing point and many merchants come from other cities and states to buy goods. These, as a matter of course, will go elsewhere to make their purchases should the ravages of the scourge not be checked very soon.

If the groundhog saw his shadow the adage has not proven itself here as yet. An old negro on Main street tied the sack that served as shoes a little tighter and gazing piteously at the bright sunshine said "De groun' hawg done seed his shadow. I jes' reckon it ud a been rainen and cloudy as de ol' scratch of we'd a wanted it to be a sunshiny day, but dat's jest de way it goes wid de wedder and every thing else with dis here ole nigger." I have seen very little snow down this way but suppose as I now begin to work homeward I'll see more of it.

I was at Hodgenville, Ky., the old home of Abraham Lincoln, not long since. Those in charge of the erection of a monument in memory of him have it well in charge and the same is expected to be done next year. The grading at the park has been suspended for the winter. The park consists of several acres where his old home stood and is a few miles out from Hodgenville. If my memory serves me correctly the Colliers, of magazine fame, have it in hand. Hodgenville of itself is a small town about sixteen miles from E. tower on the main line of the L. & N. R. R., and I want to say right here that of all the depots I have ever been in the one at E. tower, belonging to the L. & N. R. R., is beyond all question the dirtiest. Ashes, cigarette stubs and quids of tobacco mixed with mud are not the most pleasing things to be seen on the floor of a railroad depot. Then there are about a dozen boys, each smoking and spitting in the presence of ladies, for the ladies must pass through this filthy waiting room to get to the one marked "Ladies" and this one had no fire in it. A jacking up of some one would call forth words of praise instead of criticism. I shall soon be at Johnson City, Tenn., where I hope to meet a number of Bedford county folks.

Yours truly,

M. P. Heckerman.

The sale at the Metropolitan Clothing and Shoe House, Bedford, is going on. Winter goods go for a song.

FORESTRY RESERVE

An Interesting Account of State's Property in This County.

This state now owns or has under control in this county at least 9,000 acres of mountain land located in Colerain, Cumberland Valley and Southampton townships, including and surrounding the great Martin Hill, extending to about one mile to the east of Rainsburg, south on Tussey's Mountain to the Maryland state line, east as far as the foot of Tussey's Mountain at the mouth of Sweet Root Gap, and west as far as the west side of Evert's Mountain. The land was bought in four different portions, the first in 1902, the second in 1903, the third in 1904 and the fourth and last tract in 1907. The warrants for the most of this land bear the date of 1794; they were issued in the names of Clegg, Kettman, Mour, Herring, Whetstone, Roof, and others.

Most of this land was used to supply the bark for the tannery which was situated in Rainsburg. The rock oaks were cut and peeled, the bark taken and the logs left to decay in the woods; therefore, there is very little merchantable timber now standing on this land except along the streams and in small groups on the ridges. There are also a few cleared farms on this land, such as the Wertz place, the Blankley, and the Kessler. These places have not been cultivated for a number of years and are, therefore, becoming grown up with young trees; they will in time be completely covered with forest growth. In most cases this growth consists of a species of tree that is of no use for lumber.

There are at present a small house and a barn situated on the Blankley place, which are used by the ranger as a lodge. The land for the most part is covered with young chestnut, rock oak, white oak, yellow poplar, and locust, of good growth and density. In the hollows along the streams are to be found old and mature white oak, chestnut, rock oak, yellow poplar, etc.; in one or two of the hollows is also to be found hemlock. There is a certain portion of this land that is covered with scrub oak but in most every case where scrub oak is found you will also find young chestnut and rock oak about as high as the scrub. These will in time become large and shade out the scrub oak, as scrub oak is a species that never reaches large size and cannot endure shade. The scrub oak is, in most cases, the first tree to cover the land completely after a fire; it thus prevents erosion of the soil. Outside of this it has no use and should not be found in an ideal forest. In a few of the ridges are found good growths of chestnut and rock oak in very dense stands which should, in a short period of years, be thinned out, that is, a few of the trees should be taken out so as to give more room for those that are left. Along the streams are found trees that have about reached their greatest development; these trees should, as soon as conditions allow, be cut out so as to give the younger growth found beneath them a chance to grow.

This land has been surveyed by different surveyors for the different owners of the land and occasionally the surveys do not join properly. In some cases the lines have been surveyed so long ago that it is impossible to follow them without the aid of a compass. As soon as possible this land will be surveyed into a solid body. The outside lines surrounding the reserve will be marked by having numerous trees blazed and the blazes painted white. Notices will be posted and at intervals along the line will be put the mark known as the "State Blaze." This blaze consists of an X or "hour glass," marked on a tree with an axe and the X then painted white. This blaze, when put on trees, faces state lands.

People who go upon state lands are required to abide by the rules made by the Forestry Reservation Commission, which has charge of the lands. The Commissioner of Forestry is the President of this Commission, and its executive officer in immediate charge of the Reserves. This land was bought by the state for the growth and preservation of a timber supply, for the conservation of the water supply of the state, to equalize the stream flow, and as a recreation ground for the people. The land, therefore, belongs to the people of the state as a whole and the developing and managing of the reserves should be of interest to every citizen.

It is the policy of the state to plant up all the vacant fields and spots found on this reserve and to do this it is necessary either to buy or raise the young trees for this purpose. It is found to be cheaper for the state to raise its own seedlings and this is now being done at three established nurseries located at Mont Alto, Franklin county, Greenwood, Huntsgton county, and Asaph, Tioga county. It is possible that the commission will establish small nurseries upon each reserve when the money necessary to do this work is available.

W. L. Byers.

Chicken-and-Waffle Supper

A chicken and waffle supper will be held at the Corlie House Thursday evening, February 20. Not often has so much interest centered in a single event as is now being manifested in this supper. Literally, it is "the talk of the town." Few are the people who have not already signified their intention to go by purchasing a ticket. We are not surprised at this, for we have been told that a corps of the most experienced waffle-bakers in town have consented to preside at the feast upon the occasion mentioned. Moreover, the number of good things included in a twenty-five cent supper has never been excelled and not often equaled. Another pleasing feature and opportunity of the evening will be a sale of home-made cake and candy, conducted in the office of the hotel.

NEW YORK LETTER

The singular name of the company purchasing the gambling "palace" is somewhat remarkable,—being the old English for "I know" without the prefix "Y," or, in full, "Y I know," which has great suggestiveness to those who do not know, and I fancy that the court "knows" no more positively about this purchasing company (which was never heard of before) than it does as to where a roulette ball will stop after it is once set going.

It is now stated and easily believed that, after the courts have been prevented from enforcing the well-deserved punishment of the electric chair upon Harry K. Thaw for the murder of Stanford White, because the alienists proved that he was insane when the act was committed, the Thaw family expect to secure his release from the insane asylum through the "medical agreement" as to his recovered sanity and will take him abroad to live. Of course, if one class of medical experts can be bought, another can—if the price is forthcoming. The medical profession is looked upon as a noble one, yet here we find the greatest experts willing—each from his end of the line—to pronounce his brother M. D. either a liar or a fool, for a consideration, and one is no better than the other. I fear that the immunity from punishment for unbusiness-like methods that the medical profession has so long enjoyed has not contributed to the building up of a high sense of honor in the profession. In what other business can a man legally present and collect an untempered bill? Why shouldn't a doctor's patient, as well as a doctor's honor, be protected by the same legal safeguards as are applied to other business operations?

A JOOLY PARTY

Bedford Folks Took Advantage of Fine Sledding.

Tuesday evening to the merry jingle of sleigh-bells a crowd of Bedford folks hied away to Mann's Choice, where they put up at the well-known hotel, the Metropolitan Hotel. Did they have an excellent supper and a great time? Well, hear them talk about it yet! Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Brightbill, Mr. and Mrs. F. I. # "Do You Know Your Grocer?"

This question, "Do you know your grocer?" is being asked and answered in a series of editorial articles in the Woman's Home Companion, beginning in November issue. Do you know your grocer? If every housewife will read the articles she will readily see they should know their grocer and demand a standard of cleanliness from him.

Wit and Humor

LESLIE M. SHAW.

THE ex-secretary of the treasury during his official career was known as the story teller of the cabinet. He has been likened to Lincoln in his democratic ways, his carelessness of dress, his epigrams and his homely illustrations. Perhaps it would be just as well not to seek for many other resemblances, but in witty remarks and put anecdotes ex-Secretary Shaw does approach the great war president.

Here is a sample of the aptness of his stories:

A man went to him one day when there was talk of some customs frauds in New York to ask if he intended starting an investigation.

"I knew a fellow once," said Mr. Shaw, "who hunted foxes with a brass band. [A very long and embarrassing pause, while the secretary went on signing his mail.] He didn't get any foxes."

One day Justice Harlan of the supreme court, propounded this query to Shaw:

"Mr. Secretary, what is the difference between a statesman and a politician?"

Quick as thought came the answer: "It's the difference between the young man seeking a position and the boy looking for a job."

A friend of the family once remarked to the secretary:

"Mrs. Shaw is so kind, isn't she?" "Kind?" repeated Mr. Shaw. "Mrs. Shaw would be kind to her own executioner."

When the treasury portfolio was offered to Governor Shaw, his friends, in his presence, were speculating as to whether he would accept or not. He set their minds at rest by telling the following story:

"Two boys, Bill and Bob, were at the dinner table. Some time before the end of the meal the pie was passed. Bill declined to take any, saying he was not yet ready for the dessert. Bob helped himself to the biggest piece on the plate and, turning to Bill, remarked, 'Bill, allus take pie when pie is passin'.'"

The treasury department had a minor employee named Mike, who went on periodical sprees. But he was considered indispensable, so was taken back each time. Mr. Shaw learned of this and asked the delinquent's immediate superior, "What would you do if Mike were dead?" "Oh, I suppose we would have to straighten out things ourselves." "Well, so far as this department is concerned, Mike is dead. So begin and straighten."

When he was secretary he always wanted to help people if he could, but, much as he desired to assist one woman to a position, he saw it was impossible.

"I tell you how it is, my good woman," he said finally, "I'm always willing to climb a tree for anybody, but I couldn't climb a greased pole to please my mother. I want to help you, but I simply can't do it."

Senator Depew once raised a great laugh at a London banquet by quoting the following poem as coming from Shaw's pen:

"Go ask papa," the maiden said.
He knew that her papa was dead.
He also knew the life he'd led
And understood her when she said,
"Go ask papa."

Englishmen are said to be slow in seeing a joke, but even they caught on to the girl's polite method of telling an unwelcome suitor to go to the infernal regions.

When Shaw was governor, he was one day making a speech in which he was often interrupted by one man in the audience. This individual butted in once too often. In an unhappy moment he broke in with "Pardon me, but—"

Before he could finish the governor replied: "Well, I've pardoned lots worse fellows than you in my time, and I presume it would be unjust to draw the line here."

The fellow sat down, and during the remaining two hours of the address there were no more interruptions.

Centreville

February 12—Last week a team belonging to George Deremer and driven by Henry Nave got away from him and ran about two miles when it came up to Joseph Bruner's team driven by Samuel Bruner. He jumped out and told John Deffenbaugh, who was in the sled, to pull the team out of the road which he did and also jumped out, leaving Mrs. Joseph Bruner in the sled. Deremer's team crashed into a telephone pole which scared Bruner's team; Mrs. Bruner held onto the lines but could not check the team and, jumping out, left them go. Harry Dicken was on the road with a load of hay and turned the load across the road which stopped the team. Fortunately no one was hurt. Deremer's one horse was pretty badly bruised and the harness and sled tongue broken.

BROAD TOP INSTITUTE

Interesting Session Held at Defiance Last Saturday.

The sixth regular session of Broad Top Educational Association held in Defiance high school building Saturday, February 8, was a success from start to finish.

The room was crowded to overflowing, the attention was excellent, and the discussions were entertaining as well as instructive. The teachers belonging to the association were well represented. Besides, we had with us Prof. Metzger and Prof. Rice of Saxton, who took part in the discussions.

We were encouraged by having with us two members of the Broad Top township school board, Messrs. Lauder and Aldstadt. Mr. Aldstadt is not a public speaker and took no part in the discussions, but we want to assure him that we, as a body of teachers who are trying to do our duty, did appreciate having him with us.

Mr. Lauder does not claim to be an orator, but nevertheless he always has something good to tell the teachers, and of course he could not get out of making an address at this meeting, in which he urged on the teachers the necessity of better preparation for the important work in which they are engaged.

Messrs. Hoover, Pepple and Myers deserve congratulations for the very good discussions they gave on the topics assigned to them. It is our wish that every director belonging to our association could have been present at this meeting.

Another interesting feature of this institute was the special music furnished by the following: High school students—Misses Ora McCabe, Maude Cypher, Lulu Taylor and Ruth Nicholson; teachers—Misses Fletcher and Collins, Messrs. Foor and Pepple, Miss Blanche Hitchens and Mr. J. H. Brumbaugh. The music consisted of two selections with organ, violins and guitar, three male quartets, two vocal duets and two choruses.

It was voted to meet at Six Mile Run on the 7th day of March at 1:30 p. m.

The End of the Play

The play is done—the curtain drops, Slow falling to the prompter's bell; A moment yet the actor stops, And looks around, to say farewell. It is an unkind word and task; And, when he's laugh'd and said his say, He shows, as he removes the mask, A face that's anything but gay.

One word, ere yet the evening ends— Let's close it with a parting rhyme, And pledge a hand to all young friends, As fits the merry Christmas time; On life's wide scene you, too, have parts, That fate ere long shall bid you play; Good-night! with honest, gentle hearts A kindly greeting go away!

Good-night!—I'd say the griefs, the joys, Just hinted in this mimic page, The triumphs and defeats of boys, Are but repeated in our age; I'd say your woes were not less keen, Your hopes more vain, than those of men, Your pangs or pleasure of fifteen At forty-five played o'er again.

I'd say we suffer and we strive Not less nor more as men than boys, With grizzled beards at forty-five, As erst at twelve in corduroys, And if, in time of sacred youth, We learn'd at home to love and pray, Pray heaven that early love and truth May never wholly pass away.

And in the world, as in the school, I'd say how fate may change and shift, The prize be sometimes with the fool, The race not always to the swift; The strong may yield, the good may fall, The great man be a vulgar clown, The knave be lifted over all, The kind cast pitilessly down.

Come wealth or want, come good or ill, Let young and old accept their part, And bow before the awful will, And bear it with an honest heart, Who misses or who wins the prize— Go, lose or conquer as you can; But if you fail, or if you rise, Be each, pray God, a gentleman. —William Makepeace Thackeray

St. Valentine's Day

The celebration of Valentine's day, which, in this country, is now chiefly observed by the interchange of sentimental or jocular communications called "valentines," means a great deal more to the young people in many parts of England. There, instead of exchanging anonymous epistles, the lads and lassies of the neighborhood meet to enjoy a more or less elaborate dinner. At the close of this feast, the large heart-shaped cake that has graced the center of the table is cut, but is served to the bachelors alone, for while it in every way resembles an ordinary cake, it has been so constructed that each slice is found to contain a small card of paper, which, upon being unfolded, discloses the name of one of the young women present at the board. In this manner each youth is provided with a partner, for it is his duty to seek out the maiden whose name he has drawn in this novel lottery, that he may be her "valentine." Accordingly, he is assiduous in his attentions during the remainder of the evening, seeing to it that she participates in all the treats and games, and then escorting her to her home in safety.

The St. Valentine day cake is usually of the plain cake variety, is frosted with white icing, and decorated with candies.—From The Circle for February.

Grip Hints

Be extremely careful these days, with grip rampant, not to get the feet wet. More colds are taken through the feet and ankles than in any other way. If you find yourself chilling on the street and cannot get in anywhere to warm up, begin at once taking deep breaths as you can. You will soon be in a glow and a possible bad cold will be averted.

Delusions About the Irish
Cork is far more Irish than Dublin. Here I feel I am beginning to get a foretaste of the real thing. A foretaste rather than anything more actual, because Cork is too busy and prosperous to be wholly typical of Ireland. Incidentally I am beginning to doubt whether that phrase "typical of Ireland" may not conceal a pit-fall. A visitor in a strange country is apt to be almost morbidly on the lookout for what is "typical"—in other words, for what will fit in with his preconceived notions. Every one has felt this temptation. You land with an assortment of expectations as to what you are going to see, expectations derived from reading, seeing plays, listening to previous travelers, and generally assimilating such knowledge of the subject as is common property in your neighborhood. You see something that corresponds with these conceptions and you at once exclaim, "How typical!" So far from being typical, it may be and most likely is a distortion or exaggeration or caricature. This is particularly the case in Ireland, for Ireland is the most written about and the least understood, the most traveled and the least known, of all European countries. If a grinning, blue-eyed lout in tight knickerbockers were to enter my room at this moment, brandishing a shillelagh and muttering "Begorra" or "Acushla" or something of that sort, I should instinctively murmur, "How typical!" Yet I doubt if you will find such a creature from one end of Ireland to the other. And even if this mythical being did actually exist, I do not know that it would be right to describe him as typical. There are in Ireland so many Irelands, and each seems so abnormal, so wholly beyond the range of one's ordinary experience, that the most cock-sure tourist is obliged to pause before saying that this or that is a bit of the veritable Ireland. When you hear priests of forty years' standing, peasant-born themselves, and spending their whole life in the innermost confidence of the people, confessing that the Irish are as much a mystery to them as ever, it makes you abstemious of ready generalizations, and rushing inferences.—Sydney Brooks in Harper's Weekly.

The Princess Virginia

BY C. N. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Authors of "The Lightning Conductor," "Rosemary in Search of a Father," etc.

ILLUSTRATED BY WILL JONES

THE romance of an English princess to whom came in her waking dreams a vision of the only man she would marry. That this man happened to be a great sovereign adds to the piquancy and fascination of the story. The American blood in the veins of the princess not only gives her the audacity to conceive and the courage to engage in a hazardous adventure, but links her to the American reader whose interest and sympathy she at once commands.

The story is told with vigor and snap and gaiety, and has a swing that will carry the reader along almost breathlessly.—Philadelphia Record.

Princess Virginia is charming to know, dashing, brave vivacious.—St. Louis Globe Democrat

It is a charming, fascinating story which you lay down with regret, but with a happy impression left in your mind.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A dashing romance of royal imperial love that stirs the imagination to a high degree. Portland Oregonian.

A story which appeals to all who read for entertainment, to all who love a lover and particularly to every woman who has cherished an ideal of a husband

Winter Sunshine
There's something in this peaceful winter scene,
The dazzling earth aglow with golden haze,
That makes me think of long-forgotten days—
Sweet days whose ghosts walk ever by unseen.

A far-off shaft of sunlight turns to gold
The window of a far-off house; I see
The long, wide porch, the graceful willow tree,
And boyish dreams come trooping back to me.

Just so the winter sunshine used to fall
On afternoons upon the porch at home—
Like unspent echoes of spent sounds they come
Because a sunbeam lies upon the wall.

For though it shines just as it used to do,
All else is changed; a few bright joys I've won
But with each darkening of the blazing sun,
The light of some sweet hope has darkened too.

Still I have found some blessedness in this—
Sunbeams unpriized in boyhood's happy days,
Have lent to manhood all their cheering rays—
Today I find the light which then I missed.

—Roy Winchester in National Magazine.

Today's Suggestion by Ellen Stan.
ONE PIECE STUDIO APRONS POPULAR.
SINCE studio life has become so popular the aprons used by artists have come into prominence, and they are quite as much worn in the home as in the studio. To the majority of girls these aprons are really becoming. They make an attractive picture standing at the baking table or dusting about the house completely covered by these long, loose aprons of linen or chambray.

It is astonishing how much longer a shirt waist will keep clean and fresh when not exposed while working. Besides, these aprons are so easily slipped on and off that one is put to no inconvenience by wearing them. Before cutting the material see that the pattern is plenty long to fully cover the skirt and allow for the hem. If the material has not been previously shrunk, this should also be allowed for. The extra length may be taken up by a tuck placed just above the hem.

Lightweight mohairs in dark colors are quite as much used for these aprons as are cotton and linen materials. They are more expensive in the beginning, but will outwear several of the latter. They seldom require laundering, as the material sheds dust and dirt.

When selecting fabrics for such an apron, remember stripes are to the fore, which is an especial boon to those who are inclined to be short or stout. Plaids and checks are only a degree less popular and are more becoming to slender figures. Never buy a dark, muddy looking material with the idea that it will not show soil, but rather choose a clean, clear cut design in a medium shade. Blues, pinks and blacks on a white background launder nicely. Browns usually run and never look well after the first tubbing.

The pattern for this one piece apron is cut in four sizes—32, 36, 40 and 44 inches bust measure. For a 36 inch bust it requires 4½ yards of material 27 inches wide or 3¾ yards 36 inches wide.

Any reader of this paper who desires to secure this pattern may do so by sending 10 cents to this office. Give the number, 3751, and write the full name and address plainly. The pattern will reach you by mail within a few days of the receipt of the order.

The Children's Teeth
Look well to the teeth of the little ones. I do not know why it is, but almost without exception small children dislike to have their teeth cleaned. Charcoal and tincture of myrrh are beneficial to the teeth of the young, and both are easily procured at even a small drug store.

The child, be it girl or boy, who has irregular eyebrows that grow in all directions is unfortunate, indeed, if the mother does not put in a few moments every day brushing them into proper shape. Tiny strokes every day will soon train the rebellious hairs to fall into place.
Do not allow a child to meddle with its face—a habit many children develop. Many mothers argue that they hate to be "nagging" at a child all the time. Better nag a little now than to have a child, grown to womanhood, rebuke you for neglect.—Exchange.

Suffering and Dollars Saved
E. S. Loper of Marilla, N. Y., says: "I am a carpenter and have had many severe cuts healed by Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It has saved me suffering and dollars. It is by far the best healing salve I have ever found." Heals burns, sores, ulcers, fever sores, eczema and piles. 25c at all druggists.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

Bulletin.

THE EASE OF TRAVEL TO-DAY.

It has just turned a century since the first boat was propelled by steam. There was not a complete locomotive in existence then nor a mile of railroad track. But the pendulum of time has swung rapidly forward within the last two generations. The railroad, the telegraph, and the telephone have revolutionized the commerce and the industry of the world and have made neighbors of remote people.

First of all in this work of upbuilding, expansion, and development comes the railroad. It is the medium of exchange, the agency of transfer, and wherever it has gone prosperity has followed.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has built thousands of miles of track and equipped it with the best rolling stock. It has constructed or absorbed branch lines and consolidated them with its main stem, thus bringing industrial and manufacturing interests in direct touch with all the centres of trade and affording the people the facilities of travel in all directions. Travel is no longer a dread, it is a pleasure. Comfortable cars by day or night drawn by the best type of locomotives over a roadbed maintained at the highest degree of excellence, eliminate as far as possible the annoyances of travel and make it recreative rather than burdensome. Tickets are sold at the lowest rates consistent with good management and under conditions most accommodating to the passenger. The schedules of the trains are designed to meet the wishes and requirements of the greatest number of travelers, and the equipment, both as to vehicles and employees, is kept at the highest state of efficiency.

It is the object of the management to encourage travel by making it easy. Interchange is the life of the social system. Travel is a tonic to the tired—the lens of observation to all.

The Pennsylvania Railroad sells tickets good for a mile as well as for a trip around the world. It will plan a trip for you or provide the tickets for one of your own selection. It is a fine thing to have a great transportation agency like the Pennsylvania Railroad at your command.

It may not tell you what you hope, but it will tell you what is. ## Watches-- And High-Grade Watches

Don't merely buy a watch, if you please—For any ordinary watch is guaranteed—the more worth- less the watch, the bigger the guarantee— But not One out of Fifty of the ordinary Watches wear up to their guarantee—

That's not exaggeration—that's truth—

And you don't want that kind of a watch—

Of course not—

Now a really responsible jeweler will personally stand good for the guarantee of the Watch he sells—

He'll say so in writing—give you a written guarantee signed by him personally—

And it doesn't do his business much good to break such a guarantee—

People hear things—

Even the cheapest Cotton Carpets are here in beautiful designs. We are showing a great many pretty patterns at 28c, 30c, 35c and 40c and equally as good assortments at higher and lower prices. One of the strongest values in our Carpet Department is our Velvet and Brussels Carpet which we are offering at $1.00, which is really worth $1.25 a yard.

See Our Umbrellas

The new ones have arrived.

We might tell you of handles of silver, or gold with silver trimming, of carved ivory, with metal bands and caps, etc., but what would be the good? You must see the umbrellas to appreciate the uniqueness of the beauty.

Stylish, close rolling umbrellas that will wear satisfactorily. No matter how little you pay—the umbrella must be perfect—and it is if you pick from these lots; perfect in material and make. They won't fade or run or leak. No matter what kind of handle you choose you are bound to get a pretty one—and there are hardly two alike.

Men's and women's mercerized gloria (looks like silk, but is stronger) the handles are all attractive, at 85c to 98c.

Men's and women's mercerized gloria with tassel and case, at $1.00 to $1.25.

Women's silk umbrellas—blue, green, garnet and black, from $2.25 to $4.98.

Children's umbrellas, 24-inch, at 45c, 50c and 65c.

It's the best lot we have ever gathered.

Being engaged—did you ever confess? In the February issue of The Ladies' Home Journal is an article, "The Confessions of an Engaged Couple." It sounds interesting, and it is.

Did you ever see an engaged girl's hair after a call? Well, there is another article in the same issue of The Journal, "New Ways of Dressing the Hair." Probably not the same.

If you read the February Journal, you will see attractive fashions, for all of which we can supply The Ladies' Home Journal Patterns.

The Journal itself is on sale at our Pattern counter, each month, at 15 cents per copy, or we will forward your annual subscription to the publishers at $1.50 per year.
